CORONER'S JURY SAYS
'JUSTIFIABLE HOMICIDE'

George Harlow And Other
Man In Case Both Held
In Madera Jail

(By New Bureau)
MADERA (Madera Co.), Oct. 23.—A dead woman, her husband in jail and an alleged interloper also a prisoner to-day tell the toll on the results of a denouement which the coroner's jury revealed to the husband for the first time yesterday his wife's infidelity.

The dead woman is Mrs. Clara Harlow, 32. She died at the hands of George A. Harlow, 35, operator of the San Joaquin Light and Power Corporation at North Fork.

"Other Man" In Jail
H. C. Blanchard, who the officers say Harlow claims is the other man in the case, also is a prisoner in the jail. He steadfastly refuses to talk.

A coroner's jury verdict of "justifiable homicide" and "threats of vengeance upon the person of Blanchard are outstanding features in connection with the slaying."

Killings Explained
Harlow to-day retained Barcroft & Barcroft, Madera attorneys, and on their advice he refused to make any statements.

His attorneys announced Harlow claims to have no recollection of striking his wife with the gun and that while he claims he wanted to kill her, he has no recollection or remembrance of his acts when he pursued her from his home, when she fled.

Harlow is confined to his bed in the county jail, suffering from a severe nervous breakdown, according to a statement issued by Sheriff John H. Barnett.

Blind in Home
Harlow, according to an announcement by his attorneys, returned from work at 5 o'clock yesterday morning, finding Mrs. Harlow and Blanchard in a compromising position. He rushed from the bedroom in search of his shotgun. When he returned Blanchard had beaten a hasty retreat from the house, and Mrs. Harlow confronted her husband defiantly. The enraged man demanded to know how long the impropriety had been going on, and then he shot her.

Apparently reading the answer in the eyes of his husband she turned and ran.

Harlow pursued her, and as he left the house, his attorneys say he says he "killed her."

Harlow's wife, who was shot in the back of the head, was found lying on the floor of the empty room.

The girl was killed instantly by the blow and Harlow returned to the cottage where the four-year-old daughter was sleeping.

Still in a frenzy he wrecked the furniture in the house. He was overpowered by a fellow employee, Sheriff J. H. Barnett and coroner R. C. Jay of Madera were notified.

Jury Holds Killing Justifiable
Barnett arrested Harlow and Blanchard and placed them in the county jail here. Coroner Jay impounded a jury.

The verdict set forth "that Clara Harlow came to her death from blows inflicted by her husband, George A. Harlow, in a fit of temporary insanity, and that the case was one of 'justifiable homicide.'"

The jury which brought in the verdict was composed of the following: North Fork men, Eugene Martin, E. P. Russell, George W. Reem, Henry Super, Jerome Martin, and Robert Callender.

Arrested Blanchard In Jail
Harlow was in pursuit of Blanchard when his shotgun exploded, and the testimony introduced at the coroner's inquest held yesterday.

This is the first time that the case of the shooting of Clara Harlow has been made public.

PRESIDENT TAKES ACTION IN TEXAS SENATORIAL FIGHT

Executive Commends Republicans For Aiding Democrats In Anti-Klan Battle

(By the United Press)
DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 23.—President Harding to-day entered the Texas senatorial muddle.

A letter from the chief executive to L. B. Creager, state Republican chairman, was made public, in which Mr. Harding commended Texas Republicans for coming to the aid of independent Democrats in aid of independent Democrats in aid of independent Democrats.

Creager recently returned from Washington, where he conferred with leading Republicans concerning the candidacy of Governor E. B. Peck, lawyer, who was chosen by anti-Klan Klan Democrats and "adopted" by the Texas G. O. P. to oppose Earle B. Mayfield, Democrat.

Mayfield, it was believed, was backed by the "invisible empire" in the primary battles.

BONAR LAW IS SUCCESSOR TO LOYD GEORGE

FORMER PREMIER TURNS
OVER SEALS OF OFFICE

Change Marks End Of Coalition
Government Formed
During War

LONDON, Oct. 23.—It was officially stated that Premier Bonar Law would announce the names of the personnel of his cabinet tomorrow and the dissolution of the parliament, which will precipitate a general election.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Bonar Law succeeded Lloyd George as premier of Great Britain this evening.

Law formally announced to King George that he would accept the responsibility of heading the coalition government which succeeds the coalition of Lloyd George.

The outgoing premier visited his majesty to say farewell and turned over to his successor the seals of office he has held for six years.

End Of Coalition
This marked the end of the coalition government, which came into being during the war and which was sponsored by both Liberals and Unionists.

Bonar Law was elected leader of the Unionists at a meeting of that party in the House of Commons to-day, according to custom. Immediately informed the king of his party and announced that he was able to form a government to succeed the coalition headed by Lloyd George, retiring premier.

Election Unavoidable
The election of Bonar Law to the leadership of his party was an immediate address his adherents.

The next step of the incoming head of the government is to dissolve the House of Commons and call for new elections, which will be the real test of strength between Lloyd George and Law.

This would permit the organization of a new parliament by December 6, the date for the ratification of the League of Nations treaty.

Lloyd George To Campaign
The intention of Lloyd George to stump the country in defense of his policies and against the new government has been seen to-day in the announcement that he will start a speaking tour extending from South Wales to Scotland next week-end.

In keeping with the tradition of statesmen he will ask the crown to honor him.

It is understood that Lloyd George will leave London early in the morning for Lord Birkenhead and a duke, Lord Curzon, two of the most prominent in the outgoing cabinet.

Lloyd George last night gave a farewell dinner to his supporters at 10 Downing Street at which his political future was fully discussed.

Winston Churchill, minister of defense in the outgoing cabinet, issued a statement from his sick bed in which he declared he would support the Liberals and co-operate with the progressive conservatives.

RAILROAD LINE FROM FRESNO TO MONTEREY, PLAN

Project For Construction Of

By Land Purchase

PROPOSAL TO TAP SAN
JOAQUIN VALLEY MADE

Identity Of Those Interested
Being Withheld For Present

(By Bee Bureau)
MONTEREY, Oct. 23.—The purchase by William Sandholt, publisher of the Monterey Cypress-American, of three miles of waterfront at Moss Landing on Monterey Bay has brought to light a project which certain interests have been working upon to construct a railroad line from Fresno to the Monterey Bay. While the identity of the interests is being withheld it is known that they plan to tap the rich San Joaquin Valley with a steam line that will connect with a steamship company at Monterey Bay.

Interests Not Consulted
Sandholt told a representative of The Fresno Bee to-day that he purchased the waterfront without consulting other interests but admitted he may turn it over to any railway project from the San Joaquin Valley that may desire the frontage for outlet to the sea.

He said a man representing himself to be a promoter for railroad interests had been looking for the purpose of picking a suitable outlet for a railroad from the San Joaquin Valley. This railroad, if it is planned, would start from Fresno. The man insisted he was not representing any of the transcontinental lines but intended to establish people who behind the project. He asked that his identity be kept secret.

Situation Acute
The transportation troubles which have worried the growers of the San Joaquin Valley all season and which are responsible for an acute shipping situation at present, have emphasized the need of a direct outlet to the sea for the valley's produce. There has been talk of rushing to a completion a paved highway and the organizing of a trucking line from the valley to the bay to carry produce. (Continued On Page Six)

"Economy" Richardson Raided Treasuries For The Newspapers

Friend W. Richardson
Cheapest Political Skate

THIS man is the cheapest political skate the public has ever seen.

Those were the words with which Tax Collector William Neumiller of San Joaquin County publicly described Friend W. Richardson in a public hearing on Richardson's raid of the county treasuries in 1917.

Neumiller continued: "He is building up a political machine at the expense of the treasuries. I repeat this in the hope that Friend W. Richardson is within the sound of my voice to hear what I say. He is the cheapest political skate the public has ever seen."

And Friend W. Richardson was sitting without the sound of that voice without an answer to make.

FRESNO OFFICIALS CONDEMNED BILLS FOR ADVERTISING

Friend Richardson Threatened Ray W. Baker With Defeat

CARLOS K. McCLATCHY, FRRIEND W. RICHARDSON, campaigning for governor with the slogan of Economy, has a Fresno County record in that respect for his endeavor to lobby bills through the legislature which would have cost Fresno County $15,000 a year for useless printing and the state at large some $100,000.

The witnesses for that are the Fresno County grand jury of 1917, which scored the bills unscrupulous; Superior Judge S. L. Strother, then an assemblyman; Tax Collector Ray W. Baker, whom Richardson threatened to drive from public office for daring to oppose the bills; and Louis Gundelfinger, who represented the grand jury in a hearing before the governor to protest the extravagant raid upon the treasury.

Richardson a Lobbyist
For many legislatures in the past Richardson, who cries economy so loudly, has been the lobbyist who shorts through the legislature bills increasing needlessly and extravagantly the requirements for county advertising.

But that he hoped to retain his hold upon many of the smaller newspapers throughout the state and when the day came enjoy their support in his candidacy for governor.

In the 1917 session he had introduced a bill requiring that the entire delinquent tax list must be published once a week for three successive weeks in one newspaper in each county, and that portions of the delinquent tax list containing property within each school district must be published in a newspaper in each school district.

Such legislation was needless, unjustifiable and no more or less than a raid upon the public treasury to fatten the pockets of smaller newspapers whom Richardson represented.

It would have cost the counties of the state $100,000 in needless advertising. Fresno itself would have had to pay $15,000.

Ray W. Baker, tax collector, in the legislature Assemblyman S. L. Strother, now superior judge of this county, fought the bill.

"For weeks the treasury was full of a small paper, has been buying for this bill. It is an outrage that a state official should take advantage of his position to go gumshoeing around the capital for a measly ure in which he is directly interested."

"Any official who uses such tactics deserves no suffrage at the hands of The People."

Collector Baker Threatened
During the legislature, when Richardson learned that Tax Collector Ray W. Baker of this county was opposed to his bill increasing advertising, he made this threat of driving him out of public life.

Richardson said to Baker: "Don't you know that every newspaper man in your county is for that bill?"

"Don't you know that all the influence of the press will be aligned against you if you fight this bill? Take some advice from me."

What Baker Said
During a luncheon in 1917 in Fresno, Baker, when telling of that threat, said:

"I have consistently opposed this bill, because I believe that it would greatly increase the cost of advertising without doing any good. It would add a great burden and expense on the tax collector, would cause the illegalization of tax issues because of improperly read proof, and there is not a single benefit that would result from it."

"I had not paid much attention to the bill until Richardson spoke to me about it. The more I thought about his threat, the madder I got, and since that time I have been very much interested and alive to the introduction of similar pernicious measures."

Grand Jury Protests
The board of supervisors of this county protested the extravagance and waste of the bill, as did the grand jury. The chairman of the grand jury, Louis Gundelfinger, and County Tax Collector Ray Baker (Continued On Page Two)

'Economy' Richardson Raided Treasuries For News- papers

At the hearing before the governor the tax collectors of Fresno, Los Angeles, Sacramento, Modesto and many other counties, who were showing detailed figures that the signing of the bill would cost the state a needless expense of over $100,000 annually.

Thomas Eby, secretary of the State Board of Equalization, showed that the bill would throw the records of the controller's office into a chaotic condition, but Friend W. Richardson, who introduced the bill, said he would increase the salary of the controller.

Another proposal he backed was a bill requiring that notices of school elections must be advertised, though before that notice by posting was sufficient, and, of course, newspapers cover such elections in news anyway.

Another bill he lobbied for was a requirement that the supervisors advertise the list of all claims allowed, a needless waste of money. The truth of the matter is that Friend W. Richardson, who introduced the bill, has been one of the most active and persistent lobbyists in Sacramento, endeavoring to shove through measures which would increase the amount of legal advertising, undeterred by the wastefulness and the needlessness of the subject matter.

Quick With Threats

During those years he has snapped the whip of a group of newspapers which follow his lead at public officials who had the courage to fight his raids upon the public money.

He has not hesitated, as shown in the case of Ray W. Baker, to threaten political extinction to those men who tried to keep his hands from public money.

William B. Stephens did not follow his orders.

He fought Stephens and was able to defeat a number of newspapers in the same fight.

Today as candidate for governor he leads a host of newspapers devoted to the needless increase of public advertising.

And as governor he will lobby through and sign the very bills he has been supporting for years.

While all exhibitors at the first annual San Joaquin Valley Trade Exposition in the new auditorium, which opened Saturday night, have installed attractive displays, new features are being added daily.

A radio set, playing music and evening concerts will be installed this afternoon. The work of the Fresno Fire Prevention Bureau is to be demonstrated in an attractive and instructive manner in a booth being arranged this morning under the supervision of Fire Marshal Ralph Williams.

The exposition offers the public a chance to see the latest styles in clothing, shown off to best advantage on living models, new food products, samples of which, prepared by experts, are being continuously and recent inventions in labor saving devices.

The center of attraction for the youngsters is the booth of a local toy firm where dolls, drums and other toys are displayed.

The exposition is open for buyers between 10 A. M. and 2 P. M. It will close next Saturday night.

Shortridge To Speak Here November 2 Or 3 For The G. O. P. Ticket

Samuel G. Shortridge, United States senator, will be in Fresno to make an address in support of the Republican ticket in the coming election on November 2 or 3.

Franklin Leonard, local Republican manager, made this announcement this morning after having held a conference Saturday in San Francisco with Albert E. Boynton, chairman of the State Republican Central Committee and George D. Equine, state Republican chairman.

A definite date for Shortridge's address here can not be set until a little later, Leonard stated.

The state Republican headquarters in San Francisco is endeavoring to schedule F. A. Henning, assistant secretary of the United States Department of Labor, who is touring the West, for a number of addresses in California, including one in Fresno. Henning is touring the West for the purpose of interest of the Republican ticket.

The Republican Roasted Richardson's Treasury Raid

What Chester H. Rowell and The Republican thought of Friend W. Richardson's raid upon the county treasuries, published in 1917:

When State Treasurer Richardson undertook to use political threats against tax collectors Ray Baker because representing the tax collectors of the state, he had given voice to their opposition to the bill, which it became known while to emphasize the fact that the state treasury was the head of a newspaper lobby which was attempting to put through bills in the legislature not in the public interest, but in the private interest of newspapers and printers. This is a pernicious system, whether it is in the hands of the legislature or in ours, and when it is digests in political threats.

Mrs. Lloyd George Seeks New Home

LONDON, Oct. 22.—Mrs. Lloyd George went home today to say to her husband was packing up at 10 Downing Street where they have lived for the last six years.

It was announced that the former premier will leave a furnished town house for the moment. This is taken to indicate that Lloyd George expects to be back "home" in Downing Street by that time.

A large crates and records and personal effects of the premier have been packed and are awaiting the arrival of the moving van.

GIRL SLAYER TO BARE LIFE STORY

Peggy Beal Faces Accusers On Charge Of Killing Of 'Perfect Lover'

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 22.—Pretty Peggy Beal went into court today to begin her unique fight for freedom for the murder of Warren Anderson, educational director formerly of Indianapolis, last June.

The little bobbed hair beauty will rely on the claim that she killed to save other women from the will of the perfect lover after he had shown her a list of fifty other broken hearts in many cities.

Against the array of witnesses for the prosecution, Peggy expected alone to carry the burden of the defense. She declared she would bare the story of her life.

The accused woman said she would tell about the promise of marriage from Anderson which brought her to Kansas City, where she learned the "perfect love" already had a wife and that Mrs. Beal was only one of fifty other girls who had been "pawns."

"I have had the love of every one of them," Anderson told her, according to Peggy.

"He said he did not know how many more girls would be added to that list," she said, "but a game of hearts to him."

"You can't get a jury that will convict a pretty woman of first degree murder," Cameron Orr, county prosecutor, explained.

INTENSIVE DRIVE FOR POWER ACT

Riverside Mayor Will Speak Here Tomorrow, Favoring Proposed Measure

Intensive campaigning will be done in Fresno this week in support of the water and power act.

Horace Porter, mayor of Riverside, will make a public address tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium.

Porter will also support the affirmative side in a debate on the water and power act at the Lions Club luncheon tomorrow noon at the Fresno Hotel.

Rudolph Speckels, president of the First National Bank of San Francisco, will speak at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce here Thursday afternoon and evening will address an open meeting in Court House Park.

P. J. Henry, who became famous as a graft prosecutor in San Francisco, will speak at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce here Friday afternoon and evening will address an open meeting in Court House Park.

L. J. Scherer, secretary and manager of that organization, said today that it is going to wind up the campaign with an intense fight. He said it has speakers available for the measure at any time with the speakers of the opposition.

The progressive voters are asking the co-operation of the clubs and organizations throughout the valley in presenting this proposition to the public.

Drowned In Merced River While Hunting Oor Duck In Water

(By Leo Bureau)

MODESTO, (Stanislaus Co.), Oct. 22.—Search was being continued today for the body of Pete Lavender, an employee of a laundry here, who was drowned yesterday morning in the Merced River.

Lavender accompanied by E. La Costa and another friend was hunting ducks on the river, when a bird shot by Lavender fell in the water.

Lavender jumped in to get the bird, and was carried away by the swift current, never to be seen again, and his body was carried under a bridge, his two companions being unable to assist him.

Lavender was a veteran of the World War and a native of France.

against a public official who is merely doing his duty. It is properly resented.

It should be known that the assembly defeated the bill and that Assemblyman Strother made very public in Sacramento the methods which have been used in promoting it.

If there is any business which must be held absolutely to the standard of determining public questions on public grounds, it should be the newspaper business, and there should be no private newspaper lobby at Sacramento seeking to use the public influence of newspapers to the private benefit of their proprietors.

HOUSING ACT IS FOUGHT BY BOARD

Burnett Measure Declared Defective In Interview By State Official

The California Commission of Immigration and Housing is against the Burnett housing act. This is not only on account of the famous "shingle" provision, but because the act does not lessen fire hazards, but, on the contrary, actually increases them, and, in addition, lowers the sanitary standards set by the present housing laws, according to Edward Glass, state director of housing.

The director said that Sunday and Sunday in Fresno with his father, William Glass.

"Skillfully Worded"

"Dressed up as a reform measure, the Burnett act passed the state legislature and was signed by Governor Stephens. The very objectionable provisions it contains were skillfully worded and reveal themselves only upon the closest scrutiny," said the commissioner.

"The supporters of the act," continued Glass, "urge as their prime arguments that the bill will reduce the use of any but 'approved' fire resistive roofing, but it fails to set any standards as to what constitutes fire resistive roofing. The word 'approved,' however, is defined as anything that meets the approval of local building officials."

Powers To Inspectors

"Suppose that an owner desires to use a certain brand of roofing, one that is nationally known and tested as to fire resistive qualities. He may not be permitted to use such roofing if the local building inspector, for some reason of his own, does not 'approve' it."

Glass charges that the provisions of the act, which he characterized as "loose," violate the fundamentals of building code provisions, "leaving the door open to all sorts of irregularities in law enforcement."

Restrictions Needed

"The Commission of Immigration and Housing recognizes that there must be restrictions on roofs and roof structures, especially in congested districts," said Glass. "The commission members do not think that it is wise to prohibit shingles in undeveloped areas in suburban locations, and they are particularly opposed to prohibitory legislation that is tucked away in a very remote part of a very long bill."

The state commission, in its report with the desire of supporters to use a certain high building code by modifying the restricted provisions of the 1917 act, Glass continued, "but the commission was astonished when it found that many very reactionary features had crept into the proposed act."

Rebuffed By Architects

Speaking of the provision of the act which permits tenement houses and hotels to be built in the rear of other buildings, the state commission said that in many large cities millions are being spent to correct just such conditions as this act would make possible.

"It would reduce sanitary conditions far below the standards," he said, and he pointed out to the Bee that the American Institute of Architects, San Francisco chapter, has repudiated the entire housing act.

Glass is on his way northward from Bakersfield, where he assisted the city in preparing a new plumbing and building code.

ARSON TESTIMONY BEGINNING TODAY

Joe Demera Faces Third Trial On Conspiracy Charge Before Judge Woolley

Presentation of testimony in the trial of Joe Demera, Fresno merchant, charged with arson, was begun today in the court of Superior Judge J. E. Woolley. A jury had been obtained Saturday after three days of examining and reaching prospective members.

Philip Conley, special prosecutor, made the opening statement, declaring the state would show that Demera conspired with Paquiano Calaza, an insurance agent, and Pete Treasa and Joe Calaza to burn the Treasa store and cause the insurance company to pay a large sum of money.

Twice-Tried On Charge

Demera has twice been tried on the charge, both previous juries having stood 41 to 1 for conviction. The first trial was for conspiracy, in this case by Conley, J. C. Hargis, deputy district attorney, is representing the state of District Attorney W. W. Gearhart. Conley handled the previous case, while a deputy in Gearhart's office. He is now in private practice, but was retained for this case by a citizens committee.

Conley and others were first on Conley's program for calling witnesses. Their testimony had to do with the fire and evidence of incendiary. Calaza, Conley and Treasa were scheduled to testify this afternoon.

Ray W. Hays and H. L. Myers are attorneys for Demera.

TRIAL DATE SET FOR ACCUSED IN POLICE MURDER

Three Youths Charged With Killing Of Hardenbrook To Appear Nov. 13

The three youths accused of the murder here July 31 of Sergeant James Hardenbrook of the Fresno Police Department will be brought to trial Monday, November 13. This date was fixed to-day in the court of Superior Judge J. E. Woolley.

Frank Corran, attorney for Laurel Clark and Chester Boyd, the younger of the defendants, previously had asked to any date. Richard Middleton, the third defendant, who appeared in court without an attorney, was asked if he had any objection to the date. He said he had no objection and that the 13th was satisfactory.

Told To Obtain Counsel

When arraigned Saturday, Middleton was told by the court to obtain counsel by to-day. This action was taken after Corran had withdrawn from Middleton's defense. Middleton today declined to give the name of the attorney he is said to have employed.

Formerly In Reformatory

All three youths formerly were held in the Fresno reformatory at Lone. Middleton was discharged in May, the age of 21, and two months later the other two escaped. The story they have told is that they met accidentally at Lodi and Middleton supplied the others with changes of clothing. They then stole a Ford automobile and traveled in it until they held up a Stockton man and took his Buick automobile and $10.

At Fresno they were accosted by Sergeant Hardenbrook, who had been apprised by wire that they were bound this way. Hardenbrook was fatally wounded in an exchange of shots. All three boys are reported to have made confessions. Boyd and Clark charging that Middleton fired the fatal shots. Middleton is said to have admitted this, but said he meant only to shoot the officer in the leg. At the time, all three youths separated and were captured after a sensational manhunt.

Others less seriously hurt are Roy, aged 14, and Oliver Nilmeler, aged 18, brothers and nephews of the three injured sisters, who escaped practically unhurt, and Dorothy Albion, aged 14, also a high school student and neighbor of the Nilmeler family.

All of the injured were hurried in private machines to the Emergency Hospital where they received treatment from Police Nurse Stapleton and Dr. William Adams.

Emma Nilmeler, after emergency treatment, was taken to the Burnett Sanitarium for observation. J. S. Frame, of Route C, box 127-B, drove the truck. His car, too, was overturned.

Chief Deputy Sheriff W. H. Winning investigated the accident. He reported the intersection where the mishap occurred as a blind corner. The accident was unavoidable, he said.

Lydia Nilmeler was driving north in Valentine. Frame was proceeding west in California. Neither driver saw the other machine.

Frame's truck struck the Nilmeler car, a sedan, in the rear.

The sedan lamed over at a dizzy angle and then turned turtle. It landed upside down, pinning the occupants beneath it. Frame's machine struck on its side. He was thrown clear of the wreckage, unhurt. Both machines were reduced to a mass of glass, twisted steel and splinters.

The Nilmeler sisters are the daughters of H. Nilmeler, electrician, Route H, Box 243. Their home is situated on Valentine Avenue, between Church and California. Their nephews, Roy and Oliver, live nearby.

Lydia Nilmeler is the daughter of Elmer Albion, manager of the San Joaquin Light & Power Company's sub-station at the corner of Jensen and Commercial. Lydia Albion is a housewife. Detective Inspector J. N. Albion, one of Fresno's oldest citizens and said to be the first child born in this city.

Lydia Nilmeler was hysterical after the crash. She was permitted to rest at the emergency hospital and later, together with her sister Doris, was sent home.

REINSTATEMENT OF POLICE HELD OVER

Illness Of Guy E. Leonard Postpones Action Of Commission

Action on the question of reinstatement of the seven members of the Fresno Police Department who were dismissed by Mayor Truman G. Hart because of their connection with the Ku Klux Klan, probably will be deferred for several days by the Fresno Civil Service Commission because of the severe illness of Guy E. Leonard, secretary of the commission.

Original resignations of the men from the Klan, which were received from G. W. Price, Klan official at Lone, and J. E. Leonard, secretary of the civil service board, as soon as Leonard's condition will permit him to attend a meeting of that body.

Alva E. Snow, chairman of the commission, stated this morning that he knew nothing of the resignations other than what he had read in The Fresno Bee on Saturday. No action will be taken until Leonard is able to participate in the proceedings, he stated.

Considerable interest is being manifested in official circles at the city hall regarding the status of the case, because of the unusual speed with which the supplementary opinion of Commissioners Guy E. Leonard and Danton Luogetti, in which they, in effect, deferred final judgment to allow the former police men an opportunity to prove they had resigned from the Klan prior to the date of their trial before the Civil Service Board.

In the event that the proofs of fact are satisfactory to the civil service board, and reinstatement is recommended by that body, the city charter provides that the mayor has the right to appoint to the city commission which it is optional whether or not the case be heard making this body the court of last resort for either side to the controversy.

Indictment of a man and a woman for alleged participation in the crime and the indictment of another man as an accessory were filed today.

INDICTMENT OF SLAYER FORECAST

R. T. Devlin Declares Wright Enforcement Act Unconstitutional

Former United States District Attorney
Holds State Legislature Cannot Pass
Laws Indirectly And That It Has Exceeded Its Authority

THE BEE publishes below the opinion of Robert T. Devlin, former United States District Attorney for the northern district, that the Wright Act is unconstitutional in that the California Legislature by it exceeds its authority in adopting as the laws of California legislation not yet passed by Congress, the details of which are not even known.

By ROBERT T. DEVLIN.
The so-called Wright Act passed by the legislature of 1921 purports to amend or repeal the Volstead Act as the law of California, declaring that all acts prohibited by that act shall be subject to the penalties provided in the Volstead Act. The Wright Act also provides that if Congress should amend or repeal the Volstead Act, or enact any other law to enforce the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, the provisions of that act shall apply to California.

I understand that it is with reference particularly to the last provision, that you desire my opinion. Therefore, I shall not dilate upon the question as to the validity of an act of the State of California attempting to make certain acts penal without specifically declaring what such acts are, but referring to another act of another sovereignty for information on that subject.

Other Issue Clear.
However, upon the second proposition, as to the power of the Legislature of the State of California to determine in advance, if Congress should hereafter modify the Volstead Act, that such modifications should apply to California, I think there can be no difference of opinion.

The Constitution of California, Article IV, Section 24, declares that no law shall be amended or repealed by reference to its title, but in such case the act revised or section amended shall be re-enacted and published at length as amended or amended. If all the provisions of the Volstead Act had been copied into an act, and the same had been passed by the legislature so as to make it a law of California, it is evident that no provision of such statute could be amended except in compliance with the constitutional provision that the amendment should be re-enacted and published at length.

CITIZEN NEW JERSEY CASE
In many of the states it is provided by their constitutions that no act shall be amended which shall be deemed a part of, or applicable to, it except by inserting such existing law in the statute to be passed. In a case known as the "Citizen New Jersey Case," where there is such a constitutional provision, a statute granting to firemen the same exemptions "as now or hereafter may be allowed members of the National Guard" was held to be in violation of the constitution. (Christie v. Bayonne, 48 N. J. L. 497; 2 Atl. 865.) In Alabama, also, the power was extended to a certain county the provisions of a prior act without re-enacting or publishing at length the provisions so extended. The supreme court of that state expressed the opinion that this act was violative of the constitution, declaring that no law should be revised.

The loss of wealth by loss of health is six times greater than loss by fire. We spend six times as much for fire protection as we do for health protection. That shows we are business people.

Good health is never found in dollar bottles.

Army Officer Held As Smuggler Of Liquor

Scouting Airplane Used To Carry Intoxicants Say
Investigators

LAREDO, Tex., Oct. 22.—An army officer, his mechanic and an army airplane were reported held here early today following frustration by authorities of an alleged attempt to smuggle a cargo of liquor from Mexico over the border.

Fifteen sacks of whiskey were confiscated. Authorities refused to make known the name of the alleged army officer. According to officers who have been investigating, the plane, which was used for scouting purposes, has carried several cargoes of liquor across the border during recent weeks, but this was the first time they have been able to capture it with intoxicants aboard.

APPROVES MORE CLOTHES.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—In the avowed interests of cleanliness, sanitation and the soldierly appearance of the men, the War Department has authorized the issue of additional clothing to enlisted men of the National Guard, without charge against regular National Guard funds.

Each enlisted man will be given an additional pair of cotton breeches and 50 per cent more denim or fatigue clothing than was formerly authorized under the regulations for uniforms.

That action was taken at the suggestion of Maj. Gen. George H. Rickards, chief of the military bureau, War Department, who reported that the uniform equipment now prescribed and supplied is insufficient for requirements.

TEN INJURED IN TRAFFIC SMASHES

Victims Of Yesterday's Accidents Will All Recover
However

Ten persons, injured in a series of traffic accidents in and near Fresno on Sunday will recover, it was reported today by those attending them.

It was reported at the County Hospital today that E. Hoff, aged 47, of Route 1, Box 215, and his wife, Mrs. F. Hoff, aged 54, were out of danger. They, together with their two young daughters, Jennie and Ruth, were injured when the machine in which they were riding collided with an automobile driven by Earl Roberts, Route 1, Box 215.

Mrs. Hoff suffered concussion of the brain and minor injuries, while her husband received a fractured collar bone. Their daughters were bruised and Roberts, the other driver, escaped unhurt. The accident happened at Corral and Shields Streets.

W. D. Newton and his wife, Mrs. Palmer, a friend of the Newtons and her daughter, all were recovering today from injuries they received when their automobile collided with another machine at Camden. The injured persons are all residents of Stratford.

Dr. W. J. Garrett of the Lemoore Sanatorium treated the injured, Mrs. Newton suffered a possible fracture of the skull and while her condition is serious it is thought she will recover. The others suffered minor injuries.

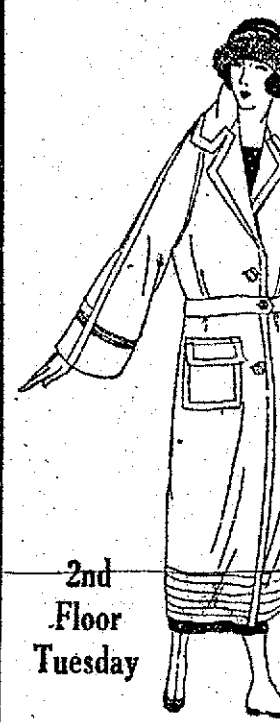

John J. Martin, aged 31, 2305 Oreanda, suffered numerous lacerations and abrasions when his machine collided with another operated by J. T. Agapian, Route 1, Box 215. The accident happened at Ventura Avenue and Broadway.

The other driver was not hurt. E. C. Brockett, aged 45, 145 Ertle Street, suffered a strained back and numerous cuts and bruises when his automobile collided with a machine driven by M. B. Smith, 1826 Fresno Street, at the junction of Ertle and McKenzie Streets.

Medical and surgical attention to prisoners and paupers is not protecting the public health; nor does it, in any way, constitute public health work.

New York Health Commissioner Shows Value Of Proper Food

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Experts and experience have shown that it does make a very great difference in the health of the individual what he eats. Dr. H. H. Biggs, State Health Commissioner, in a radio health talk, during childhood, lack of the proper kinds and varieties of food results in defects which, if uncorrected, hamper and hinder that person all through life.

Dr. Biggs, teeth that decay easily, and misshapen jaws are all examples of malnourishment in early life. In later life, a restricted and unwise indulgence of one's tastes may result in development of one of the adult life diseases such as diabetes, Bright's disease, etc.

Value Of Foods
So it behooves us to know something about the value of the different kinds of food and just what and how much we should eat to keep ourselves in the best of condition.

Curiously enough, the government has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in the past few years to feed our horses, cows and pigs in order to get the best results and but a comparatively small amount on the proper feeding of the human race.

Digestion of food is a process of oxidation or burning, said Dr. Biggs. During this process, heat is given off but the food is broken down into products which can be absorbed and become a part of the body according to its needs. If you under feed a furnace or give it the wrong kind of fuel, it either burns low or goes out. If you give it too much coal, you choke it and it will not burn at all.

Some people think that a diet consisting of meat, potatoes, bread and cereals is sufficient for all body needs, but those who have made a study of nutrition find that one cannot keep in good condition on these four foods alone. A diet must be added one or more of the fatty green vegetables such as lettuce, cabbage, spinach, celery, etc., and milk. Little milk or milk products are necessary. In the case of children, a diet of these four foods will not give them the proper amount of food for their bodies. The shortage of any one essential affects the whole nutrition of the body, and often results in one being more quickly in a bad condition than one who has been eating a balanced diet.

Spain Fears U. S. Aid to Liberia

CERTAIN political thinkers in Spain believe they see a menace to Spain in the United States' latest loan of $4,000,000 to Liberia. Liberia is a negro republic, founded by this country for former slaves and for as many American colored people as cared to return to Africa.

The United States has always kept a watchful eye over Liberia. Spain sees in this only an American attempt to gain a foothold in Africa.

The Spaniards are particularly disturbed over the effect of an Americanized Liberia on the island of Fernando Poo, 1200 miles away. Liberia will soon be so well off, they say, that all her labor will stay at home, and then the Spanish investment on Fernando Poo will fall for lack of workmen.

In joining the Red Cross this year the new member, as well as the old member receiving a membership, will receive a certificate of membership, which will be a stub of a card adopted by the Red Cross as the first complete system of registration containing names, addresses and classes of membership to be retained by the chapters as permanent records, whereby it will be possible in the future to keep in touch with its members for emergencies.

Ex-Kaiser Friend
To Negro Drummer
The Kaiser has already begun to bestow his wedding favors. One of the most overjoyed beneficiaries is Sambo, a South African negro, who was a favorite of the Emperor in the 1911-12 season. Sambo was then a band drummer in the regimental band of the famous Life Guard Hussars. He has been making inquiries among his friends in Berlin. The result is that Sambo will now grace Unter den Linden in a baby-blue uniform. The Hotel Adlon, Berlin's smart hostelry, has engaged him as a soloist. He will be parading in front of the hotel, greeting the arriving Americans and other guests. He is a great linguist and speaks fluent German, even rolling his R's in governing German fashion.

Grape Saving Cars Coming

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 23.—The California grape crop is to be saved by the action of the Interstate Commerce Commission in ordering the release of 3,400 refrigerator cars from Eastern lines, according to C. S. Hoover, member of the commission who was in Sacramento Saturday.

The cars will begin moving to California, within ten days, Hoover says.

When informed Saturday by The Bee of the action of the Interstate Commerce Commission in releasing 3,400 refrigerator cars to move the California grape crop, company officials at the office of E. Y. Foley were of the opinion that while it was certain that this 3,400 cars would be a great relief, the extent of the relief will depend almost entirely on the weather conditions between now and the time the cars arrive.

The shippers stated that they estimated that there are 25,000 cars of green fruit yet to be moved, approximately 35,000 cars having already been shipped. "If we get no rain or frost," they said, "before the cars arrive here, we are safe."

"If we do get rain or frost, the damage will be considerable."

Hundreds Per Day Needed
Pacific Fruit Exchange representative said the situation that if cars arrive here within the next few weeks at the rate of 500 or 600 per day, the situation will be entirely relieved, providing there is not some very severe weather between now and then. At the exchange office it was stated that in the past few weeks all the cars over all the railroads into Fresno have not totaled over 125 cars.

There is a large tonnage of Malaga and Muscats to be moved, said Fresno shippers, and the Emperor crop adds to the problem of the shippers and shippers. Weather conditions form a large factor in the benefit that California will derive from the release of 3,400 fruit cars in the East. In the opinion of C. S. Hoover, manager of the Associated Fruit Company.

"The release of these cars will do considerable good if the weather remains good," he said. "Cars from Chicago ought to reach here in seven days. Then they will have to be inspected and cleaned, and undergo whatever repairs are necessary, but even with this improved the situation will be improved if the weather continues good."

"We have been looking for these cars for some time," he continued. "At various times there have been reports of a considerable number of cars released, but, somehow, they never seemed to reach us."

WOMEN TO REPORT COSTS OF LIVING

Data To Be Used To Find Best Minimum Wage Scale

FIVE hundred organized women workers of Fresno will prepare individual and detailed reports on their living costs as the basis for data to be prepared by a special committee from the Fresno Labor Council for presentation to the state minimum wage board in the local committee program to set a higher minimum wage for women.

George T. Johnson, secretary of the labor council, announced today.

Johnson is making questionnaires of all Fresno women workers, and they will show how much each woman needs for her family. The questionnaires will include such items as rent, food, clothing, and other necessities.

From the 500 questionnaires, the committee will strike an average that it is believed will fairly represent the cost of living in Fresno for women workers.

This information is to be submitted to the state minimum wage board at its scheduled hearing in San Francisco in December. The annual session this year having been postponed from November until December.

A special committee met at Johnson's office in Union Hall Friday night and completed preliminary arrangements for securing the data on women's living costs.

Expert Directs U. S. Dirigible Building

Italian ship which will be model for American "airplane mother ship," and Umberto Nobile, Italian expert who will supervise construction.

Umberto Nobile, Italian air expert, has arrived in the United States to direct the construction of a mammoth mother ship of the air which will make it possible to launch planes from the dirigible while at full speed. The ship will be modeled after one designed by Nobile for the Italian government. The big ship will be built by Good-year at Akron, Ohio.

AGED RECLUSE IS FOUND DEAD AT WATERFORD

Body Of Hermit Found By Neighbor After Being Missed From Streets

WATERFORD, (Stanislaus Co.), Oct. 23.—Simon Kircher, 70, known here for many years as the "Hermit of Waterford," was found dead on the floor of his little cottage on the edge of town at 11:30 o'clock this morning.

Kircher's body was discovered when a neighbor, Lester Brown, happened across the aged man who had been missed from the streets since Saturday night when he called for his mail.

The dead man's body was lying face down on the floor of the house and death is supposed to have resulted from natural causes, although he is known to have kept considerable sums of money in the house.

Although Kircher who was a native of Bohemia, had lived here for a number of years, nothing is known of his relatives or means of livelihood as he talked little and spent most of his time at his home.

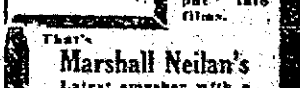

The coroner will hold an inquest over the body today.

Fresno Wins Third Battle and Pennant From Hanford Kings

Ragged Game Goes To Tigers By Score Of 7 to 2; Leonard Pitches Tight Game; Little Leyva Is The Hero Of The Contest

FRESNO TIGERS took the final game of the championship series from the Hanford Kings yesterday afternoon at the local park by a score of 7 to 2 and captured the pennant in the San Joaquin Valley Baseball League. Ragged, listless baseball was served the fans most of the afternoon. There were nine hits contributed by the ball tossers, six of them being credited to the Tiger infield.

Fresno was never in danger. Leonard pitched a steady brand of baseball from the start, bearing down when the Kings threatened. The big left hander turned in a record of fourteen strikeouts and issued but one base on balls.

Fresno put the game on ice in the third inning by getting behind in the score. Four hits, a walk, a sacrifice fly and a couple of glaring errors in the outfield did the dirty work. Hanford's error in the first on a walk, a single and two hits. The final run of the game came in the last of the fifth on an error and a single.

Leyva was the hottest hero of the afternoon, connecting for a triple in the third when the bases were loaded and coming through again in the fifth with a single to later. "Hot" Leyva took the fielding laurels. He handled eight chances cleanly, pulled one double play unassisted and started another. Hanford's error in the second inning, a muffed ball, a sacrifice fly and a couple of glaring errors in the outfield did the dirty work. Hanford's error in the first on a walk, a single and two hits. The final run of the game came in the last of the fifth on an error and a single.

Win Over Centre Places Harvard On Top Of Heap

By HENRY L. PARRELL.
United Press Staff Correspondent.
NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Harvard stands out as perhaps the best and the strongest team in the East. The Crimson showed itself to be the farthest advanced, at least, by the ease with which it defeated Centre College.

Harvard, Army, Navy, Cornell, Penn State, Lafayette, Princeton and Georgetown remain undefeated in the East, while Brown and Yale, J. have each played a tie game. Iowa's narrow escape from defeat at the hands of Illinois and the victory of Michigan over Ohio State were the features of the last week in the Western conference. Chicago, Michigan, Iowa, Wisconsin and Minnesota have yet to be beaten in the conference. Chicago, leading with two victories.

Leaders of the South had a bad day. While Centre was being run over by Harvard, the great Navy team was beating Georgia Tech. Cornell, with a total of 203 points, scored in four games. Michigan, in the "point a minute" class, and is leading the Midwest with 116 points. California is the best on the coast with 191 points.

Red Sox Pilot Due For Gate Is Latest Report

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—New York Times reports that the Red Sox pilot, who has been re-engaged to lead the team next season, "wises" can no longer "fly" the "wise" ones, and has turned his attention to Hugh Duffy, manager of the Boston Americans.

They are saying that Duffy is scheduled to be bounced from the Red Sox.

President Harry Frazee is said to have decided to replace Duffy with Hugh Duffy, manager of the Boston Americans.

Frazee has not been in the habit of interfering with his managers or questioning their judgment, but he is not pleased with what Duffy has accomplished this summer and has decided on a change.

Thus far Frazee is not known to have any one in particular in view to replace Duffy, but it is believed he is eager to secure a playing manager, a player who can do as The Speaker and Ty Cobb have done with their clubs. It would not be surprising if Del Pratt, second baseman, were to be given the position.

No changes likely in N. Y. The recent season of Speaker and Cobb have influenced club owners to go back to the playing managers. A decade or so ago they were in vogue, but suddenly there came a change and the playing manager became a thing of the past.

Off hand it cannot be said there will be any changes in the "National League" which takes place in Philadelphia, although there Irving Williams appears to have done very well with the material given him by President William Hunter, and it is likely he will be retained for another year.

RAISIN CITY (Fresno Co.), Oct. 23.—Raisin City Grammar School met the Manning School in a spirited game of indoor baseball and won by a score of 16 to 12.

STATE CHIEF TO PROTEST 2-0 GAME

"Our boys had more pep and fight and played better football than they ever played before. They bucked the Loyola line straight down the field for eighty yards and again for fifty yards. Ryan and Kierling started in the backfield for Fresno, and Lynch and Dodson were the strongest men in the line. Loyola had two ineligible men playing on her team, and Coach Jones of the Athletic Managerial Institute is protesting the game with the conference."

So spoke Coach Arthur W. Jones of the Fresno State College in commenting on the defeat of his team by a score of 2-0 by the Loyola College. The Fresno State eleven made eight first downs to five of Loyola. Ryan, halfback, was able to plunge through the lines repeatedly for large gains. Kierling, halfback, also was able to break through the line without great difficulty. Ryan, who started as half against Loyola, was able to break through the lines repeatedly for large gains. Kierling, halfback, also was able to break through the line without great difficulty.

During the first quarter a pass by Hunkin hit Baxter. Because of that, Kierling, who was to receive the ball, fumbled. It was recovered by Traber of Loyola for a safety. This made the score 2-0 in favor of Loyola. Neither side scored throughout the remainder of the game.

The Loyola left end, Brown, and substitute, the player, were not eligible as neither one is registered in the institution, according to Coach Jones. Because of this, the game is being protested.

The players returned late yesterday morning. Every man will be out for practice to-night. They are determined to work and work hard. Next Saturday the Fresno State College team meets the Stanford team at the Athletic Managerial Institute. The coach Jones realizes that the team must play better football than ever if the Fresno eleven is to have a chance to win, and plans a week of intensive practice for the men.

Richardson Advertising Agent Of Newspapers

Friend W. Richardson the myth and Friend W. Richardson the flesh!

Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde!
On the first page of this paper to-day, thanks to the efforts in 1917 of Judge S. L. Strother, Louis Gundelfinger of the grand jury, Tax Collector Ray W. Baker, Tax Collector William Neumiller of San Joaquin County and the board of supervisors of this county, the voters can learn exactly what sort of man in this who claims to have invented economy in state government.

Therein can be read how Friend W. Richardson for years has been the chief lobbyist of a group of newspapers intent upon forcing through the legislature laws requiring the needless and extravagant publication of trivial county affairs as advertising.

Therein is shown in detail how Friend W. Richardson cajoled and threatened that the counties of California might be forced to spend $100,000 yearly in needless advertising that he and other newspaper owners might benefit.

Therein is detailed how he threatened that through newspapers working with his political machine he would drive Tax Collector Ray W. Baker out of political life if he dared oppose these raids upon the county treasury.

And Friend W. Richardson is placed in no pretty light.
Instead of that broad, able, unselfish citizen whom many papers acclaimed as leader because of his ability, Friend W. Richardson appears to have been their selfish lobbyist, working not as a state official for the interests of the public, but using his state office to advance his own business and that of the newspapers he represented.

Advertising agent at the state capital.
Lobbyist to get business for newspapers by forcing counties to spend their general funds to pay for advertising useless notices that the papers of Friend W. Richardson and his supporters might be enriched!

And Friend W. Richardson preaches platitudinously about economy with a convenient memory which forgets how he has tried to raid the treasury year after year.

Friend W. Richardson was willing before election to pay for political support out of the treasuries of the counties.

If elected, he will continue to pay out of the county treasuries. For Friend W. spends not of his own money.

California wants no governor of any special class, bankers, union labor, power companies or what not.

No more does she want a governor representing newspapersmen. That so many newspapers are united in Richardson's favor is a reason against his election, and not for it, for the basis of their union seems class advantage.

Newspapers can best serve their public by freedom of opinion, by putting public duty above selfish interests, by trying themselves to no man's cart.

Friend W. Richardson is performing no service for the press of the state or for the people of California when he unites a considerable number of newspapers behind a political candidacy when the chief appeal is what he accomplished for newspapers selfishly at the expense of the state.

Richardson neither served the state well in this nor the press itself.

No man does when he endeavors to corral public opinion by appealing to the commercial side of newspapers.

No matter how sincere or disinterested may be the motives of some newspapers for the election of Friend W. Richardson, the public cannot help feeling that the candidate so highly eulogized has been and is the business agent of the newspapers at the state capital to get business for his supporters.

He did that as state treasurer. Will he be given the greater power of governor to get needless advertising for the newspapers of the state?

MORE WRANGLING ABOUT

CENSORSHIP OF PLAYS
In New York they are again wrangling about the censorship of plays. John S. Sumner of the Society for the Suppression of Vice has proposed a scheme whereby plays are to be submitted to a competent jury before public presentation and managers are to agree voluntarily to submit to the findings of that jury. So far, the plan has not met with general favor among either managers or playwrights.

This is no more than natural. Even allowing that any sort of censorship is desirable, where is a competent jury to be found? Who is to pass on its competency? And who is to compel the shady theatrical manager to abide by its decision, if he finds that it runs counter to his financial interest?

It has been very clearly demonstrated that the only noticeable results of the suppression of books have been a large increase in the price of the books suppressed, coupled with a vastly increased demand for them. It is a common place among the book trade that a book can have no better advertising than the publicity which arises from its suppression. Would not the same be true of plays?

As in prohibition, so in all attempts at censorship whatever the inevitable result is to play into the hands of the very elements the moral mediocrity wish to combat. The one has for its most conspicuous result the bootlegger; the other brings about privately printed books for which the publisher can get an enormous price; and would in the case of theatrical attractions undoubtedly bear the same kind of fruit.

Wherefore, it comes about that the two classes who are most in favor of all censorships and prohibitions are the self-appointed mediocrity with other people's business and those who are interested in preventing synthetic liquor and pornography. Politics is said to make strange bedfellows, but it has never produced a more paradoxical marriage than this zeal after others' morals.

WHAT ABOUT PRESNO'S SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA?

The opening of the Philharmonic orchestra season in Los Angeles reminds us of the fact that this orchestra, which has grown to occupy a high place among the orchestras of the country, has been made possible by the generosity of one man, W. A. Clark, Jr. is the man, and his contributions to the cause of Western music must total to date considerably over $1,000,000. On top of this, Clark has recently guaranteed to support the Philharmonic for another five years, which will probably bring the figure up to more than $2,000,000.

Los Angeles has been fortunate in possessing such a benefactor, and the rest of California has benefited also by the concert tours which the orchestra has made, and by the stimulated interest in music which has resulted.

All of which brings the thought that Fresno has an orchestra of its own, which for years has been struggling along with nothing much in the way of equipment but the sliver of its purpose. It is not suggested that some citizen of Fresno should come forward with a donation to match that of W. A. Clark; the disproportion between the populations of Fresno and Los Angeles would make such a suggestion ridiculous.

It is suggested, however, that Fresno is a very wealthy community, and that no citizen or group of citizens could erect a better monument to themselves than by following in the footsteps of Clark to whatever distance is possible and practical here. The work of Earl Towler and his associates deserves recognition, and the ideal they are serving needs the assistance which only individual generosity can give at this point in the orchestra's development.

The designers of women's fashions are striving for perfectly obvious reasons, to do away with short skirts. From all parts of the country comes protest. Apparently many women, once having known the freedom of abbreviated attire, do not want to put on hobble again.

At the same time there are the usual number of protests against the short skirts on the ground of their immorality. It will be interesting to see who wins in this argument, but at present the odds are all in favor of the designers. If they design long skirts only and the shops carry them only, what is a woman to do?

Leaving all question of morals out of it, the return of longer skirts may in one respect prove a benefit to women. The primary objection to the short ones was aesthetic. They were not beautiful in many cases because those portions of the anatomy which they exposed were not beautiful. To be unattractive is the most serious tactical blunder a woman can make in the game of attracting men, which, despite all feminine propaganda, is still a fairly popular sport.

If women do adopt the long skirts, they will become more attractive on the theory that what is not seen is always more intriguing. And think what a blessing it will be to the girls with bow legs!

The Rev. F. G. H. Stephens said this of Woolwine in his church at yesterday's services:

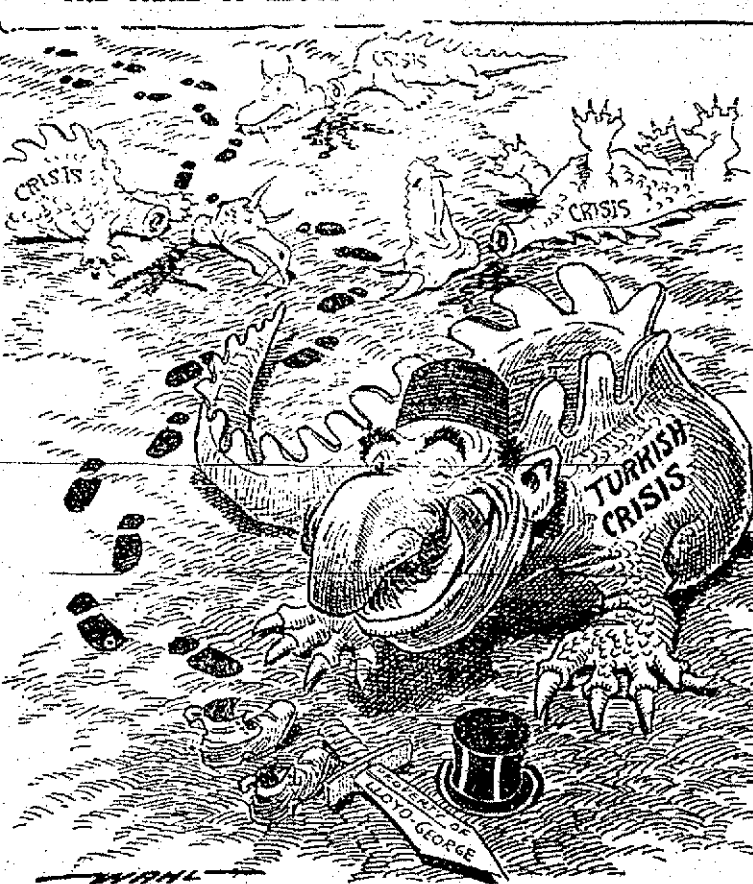

"Any man who is a candidate for any office and who encourages the violation of the law as this man does is not fit for the surface of decent folk."

A political speech, even from a church pulpit, should rest upon solid fact.

Thomas Lee Woolwine does not encourage the breaking of any law. He stands forthright for strict enforcement of the Volstead law, as well as every other law and his record as District Attorney of Los Angeles County in prosecuting bootleggers puts that beyond question.

But, while insisting upon law enforcement, Woolwine believes the law should be modified, which is democracy in proper, unless freedom of thought has also become a punishable crime.

THE BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The young Fox who was a prisoner of Farmer Brown's Boy thought that day never would end. He kept inside the box Farmer Brown's boy had fixed for him because somehow he felt safer there. All day he heard strange noises outside, but he didn't try to go out. He was afraid.

Can You Tell?

No. 6—Why We Slip When Walking on Ice

We are very apt to slip on the ice, and even the smooth floors of our homes, while there is no thought of this when the walks are free from ice or the floors covered with carpets. And yet, if each step we took, whether on a smooth sheet of ice or on a highly polished floor, were made with the body evenly balanced and with the weight of the body distributed equally over the entire foot, we would not slip. The reason we slip is all in the way we walk. We do not place our steps on these surfaces with the body perfectly balanced. We can do so without slipping. We are, in fact, walking unbalanced and unsteady.

Why do we not slip on dry walks? We take many not perfectly balanced steps when walking on the ordinary sidewalk as we do when walking on ice or on polished floors. We do not slip when walking on dry sidewalks, even though we may put little attention to our steps, because of what is called friction. Without friction we could not walk at all. When we walk on ice the amount of friction between the sole of the shoe and the ice is less than on a dry walk. Our ability, therefore to walk on any kind of surface is due entirely to the amount of friction that occurs between the bottom of the shoe and the surface which is being walked upon. If we create sufficient friction at these points we can walk on any kind of surface, whether our steps are balanced or not.

What's What
By HELEN DECIE

A New Orleans correspondent writes to "What's What" asking a question about a young couple who have just returned from their honeymoon. They should be happy and content, but the bride and groom are both looking very tired and worn. The correspondent asks what the reason is for this. The answer is that the bride and groom are both suffering from a condition known as "honeymoon blues." This is a common condition which affects many young couples who have just returned from their honeymoon. It is caused by a combination of factors, including the change in routine, the loss of privacy, and the pressure of family and friends. The condition is usually temporary and can be overcome by taking a few days of rest and relaxation.

It is usual for a bride and groom to sit side by side at their wedding breakfast, but at a dinner given for them, they are both guests of honor, and are seated according to the usual precedence for ranking dinner guests. That is, the bride sits at the right of the host, and the groom is placed at the right of the bride.

Merely Some Private Thoughts By C. K.

LLOYD GEORGE has resigned, and now all England seems to be at his feet. Out of power, he yet appears to be more powerful than ever.

Stranger things have happened than that Lloyd George again may become Premier of England, and that before long.

George is bitterly hated, intensely loved, very much feared, and is the center of all personal attacks all through Britain. His devoted followers scarcely can find words in the English language strong enough in his praise, while those who hate him hesitate at no statement to blast his personal reputation.

The writer has heard in London and throughout England, and in African and Asiatic dependencies or mandatories, the most vicious and nasty stories told by reputable Englishmen and Englishwomen concerning this man.

But, almost without exception, they have admitted that he was the one man alone who could have steered the ship of State so successfully during the "times that tried men's souls."

George is a wonderful orator. He has the vivacity of the French and the seeming impetuosity of the Irish.

The "Little Welchman" is in a class by himself among speakers in the British House of Commons.

In fact, outside of George and some of the Irish members, "oratory" in the House of Commons is about on the level with that one would hear in the average board of trade or chamber of commerce—and that is something awful even to contemplate.

George is a man of intense courage. At the end of every defeat he has come up smiling, and so far has been able to retrieve himself and in the end win a victory.

And it wouldn't astonish anybody who has studied thoroughly his career to see him again at the head of the government in England.

Some champions of Friend William Richardson are demanding that California must elect him its Governor so as to approve the administration of President Harding.

The question before the citizenry of California is not whether a candidate for governor put his personal ambition, or whether he is or is not a member of the Warren Gamaliel Harding, but rather whether such candidate, by his record, and because of his ability and his courage and adherence to living issues, is best suited to be the executive of this state.

The People of California certainly desire something more than an echo in the gubernatorial chair.

Besides that, it is doubtful whether the voters of California approve all the Harding administration has done.

Do they sustain the national administration because of the drastic injunction issued against the unions at its behest—an injunction which went beyond the limits not only of fair play and justice, but even of constitutionality, which invaded the constitutional rights of every American citizen to freedom of speech and of the press?

Do the voters approve the weak and vacillating method of Harding in dealing with the railroad strike, his advancing and retreating, his evasion when he should have been direct, his "diplomacy" when he should have been decisive and blunt, and his almost brutality when he should have been conservative and appealing?

Throughout the strike days and weeks, President Harding generally succeeded in doing the wrong thing at the right time.

Are the citizens of California to forget every other issue in this campaign and elect Richardson to the governorship for no other reason than that he says he approves everything Harding did as President?

The Republican National Committee has issued a pamphlet entitled, "The Woman, the Child and the Republican Party," which is described as a "record of constructive humanitarian achievements in behalf of things in which the women voters of America are especially interested."

The late President Roosevelt is commended therein; also President Harding; also Senator Kenyon of Iowa, and Representative Campbell of Kansas; also Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana, Senator Borah of Idaho, and others.

And yet he is the author and introducer of the constitutional amendment against certain forms of child labor.

And it is the Republican National Committee is controlled by the reactionaries?

Some eastern journals are very much in favor of the United States taking over the guardianship of the negro republic of Liberia in Africa. They commend strongly the loan of $500,000 to the Liberian government, and one of them says:

It is evident to those conversant with the process of economic expansion that, when she obtains a commercial foothold in Africa, America has entered into the first step that leads to direct economic, if not political, control.

That is exactly what these so-called "Americans" desire.

And it is precisely what would be the very worst thing for the United States.

AN INCIDENT
She was pretty—maybe not really pretty, but striking looking.

She was a rose-colored homely girl. With a dainty little flapper hat. Gray hose, unbecomingly "everything."

His eyes—the kind that snap and twinkle. And—oh, yes—a winsome stare (nearly forgot that).

She walked past him—sort of strolled—you know. He couldn't help but notice her. He was sure of it.

Yes, she had caught his eye. He was sure of it. She was coming toward him—What luck! He always was a devil with the ladies.

Was she flirting? He half suspected it. Yes, she was actually flirting. It wasn't his fault if she admired him.

She's going to stop. Here she is! He lifted his hat in answer to her pretty smile. Where would they go?—the restaurant, the movies? She speaking even before he had a chance.

GOOD WISHES
Editor of The Bee—Sir:
I observe that the Fresno Bee has made its bow to the San Joaquin Valley public.

I congratulate you and your associates on the advent into the journalistic arena of a newspaper which will be, in general policy, vigor and force, a replica of our own Sacramento Bee. You have, in my judgment, a splendid field for just such a paper as I know you will publish.

Fresno County is one of the great counties of the United States. That county, indeed, stands in agriculture, horticulture and kindred farming industries, at the highest notch and Fresno City, while even now one of the most prosperous inland cities in California, has still a wonderful future before it. I have no doubt but that it will some day be four or five times as large as it is now, and that paper which surely take a conspicuous part in the accomplishment of that end.

The Fresno Bee, however, will cover the entire San Joaquin Valley, which is rich and prosperous, a section as is to be found in this or any other state in the American Union. There is every reason why your paper should be a success. Yours respectfully,

E. C. HART.
Sacramento, California.

A HAPPY PHILOSOPHY
Editor of The Bee—Sir:
Everybody is wishing and even praying for a return of the good "old days" of prosperity and success.

But few have been able to determine the real reason for the delay of the halcyon hour when business will again be brisk and profitable. The real fault lies with The People themselves.

How can anyone be prosperous or happy when the axes in the face of nearly every man he meets a haunted, hunted, hungry look of despair peering from dull eyes that should have the radiance of gladness? It is only after you have given up that you are really whipped and you are not half defeated if you still have health and hope.

Can you expect success for the day of the halcyon hour when business will again be brisk and profitable? It is only after you have given up that you are really whipped and you are not half defeated if you still have health and hope.

Throw away your old clothes. Put on a new suit. Walk briskly even if it is only to the "park" you are going "to think it over." And smile, and greet you smile. You will soon find that your attitude is infectious. Others will follow your good example and soon, very soon, the shadows of gloom will be chased away by floods of gladdening sunshine and you will become more successful in all your undertakings.

Don't be a Wishkadee. Be a Gladdidee.
CHARLES PRESTON.

THE PRESNO BEE
(The Byron Times)

The Fresno Bee—the new publication being put out by the McClatchys of Sacramento—will make its first appearance next Tuesday, October 17. That it will be a credit to the San Joaquin goes without saying.

FRESNO'S NEW PAPER
(Pasadena Star-News)

The Star-News congratulates Fresno upon the entrance of the new paper into the newspaper field there. The Fresno Bee, first issued to-day, will be a credit to Fresno and surrounding counties. Knowing the splendid journalistic abilities of the McClatchy family, this prediction of the success of The Bee is made with the utmost confidence. The public may look to The Fresno Bee to become, for the San Joaquin Valley, what The Sacramento Bee is to the Sacramento Valley—a great newspaper, wide-awake, progressive, vigorous and intensely devoted to its home city and section.

The McClatchys, who have made of The Sacramento Bee one of the really great newspapers of the Pacific West, they put "punch" into whatever journalistic achievement they undertake.

Fresno, whose morning field is well covered by The Republican, offers an excellent opening for

ON NAVY DAY
(From San Francisco Examiner)

The United States Navy "is an agent of stability in a troubled world. It carries no threat, but it lends authority to America's voice, speaking for altruism, justice and law."

That is a fine ideal. It is enunciated in a letter to "The Examiner" from the commander of a Pacific coast naval post of the American Legion.

With such an ideal before us we can approach the celebration of Navy Day, on Friday of this week, with singing hearts.

The navy has played a part in the history of this country that is greater than most of us realize. Its role is, largely, silent. It requires no great vocal encouragement to prove the effectiveness of this naval arm of the nation's armed services. A battleship is not always noisy, but it is always effective, even in its silences. It is an emblem of power, and when that power is backed by right and a general good-will its force is trebled.

COYOTE BOUNTIES
(From Modesto Mercury)

County bounties on coyotes in these counties in which much poultry, hogs and sheep are raised are becoming more popular. Merced is the first county to adopt the plan. A new county ordinance there provides that for each coyote killed in that county by a resident a bounty of $2 will be paid. It is necessary to curb the animals' skin accompanying the demand. In some of the northern counties a much higher bounty is paid, though it is required that the carcass of the coyote be taken to the nearest magistrate to have the proper affidavit made.

If Stockton had heard of that in earlier times we might have tried to kill two birds with one stone—the other being the elusive maguato that sneaks his way along the river. Neither the dogs nor the maguato are all that they are used to be in this neck of the woods.
